

Mushroom Classification

Wireframe Documentation

Images of mushroom are fed to the model, the model will learn the patterns depend on the dataset, in this we used SVM machine learning model. Training and testing data are splitted. with the training data model will train then with the test data model will test the incoming new data and decide or predict whether it is edible or poisonous.

